Project Summary *

Please explain the who, what, when, where and why for this project.

The Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government is submitting this KOHS grant application for an Interoperability Communications Vehicle to enhance capabilities for the Division of Fire and Emergency Services to communicate at incidents such as active aggressor, cyber-attack, and CBRNE. Incidents such as these, which may result from terrorist action, strain the emergency response and communications system. This vehicle will allow operations to perform when traditional communications infrastructure is damaged or otherwise impacted. Operations at incidents involving urban search and rescue following natural disaster such as tornados and flooding or hazardous materials will be improved with this increased capability.

Exercise Training

If applicable, list any trainings (including training catalog numbers) that will be conducted with the funds requested for this project.
