Thank you for joining us for On the Table 2020!

This year's topic is neighborhoods! All across Lexington, neighborhoods are changing. Some are going through positive changes - and some through negative ones. This year's On the Table is built to foster conversations about what is happening in our neighborhoods, so we can set a vision for how to build them better for everyone.

Here's how this will work:

Start by filling out the survey.

In it, we'll ask you some questions about yourself, where you live, and what is happening where you live.

After the survey, you'll have a conversation about your responses.

Where do you find commonalities with others at the table?

When you're in your table conversation, remember that this is a space for dialogue, not debate.

Speak only for yourself and listen to others. If someone says they have experienced something, believe them.

In the days after your conversation, if you've provided your email, we'll send you a follow-up survey asking about your experience.

In the early summer, you'll get a report that pulls together what you and your neighbors said in the surveys - and how you can get more involved.

We're also sending it to elected officials & decision makers so the voices of residents are clearly heard.

On the Table is an exercise in local Democracy.

It won't lead to change on its own, but with all our voices amplified, we can work toward a better Lexington for all!

Participant Survey

Each paper survey that we receive will have to be hand-typed into our digital database. If you have access, we'd love it if you filled the survey out online at ottlex.org/survey

We're asking what street you live on to get a better understanding of how people identify neighborhoods and to get more accurate data. It will always be confidential, and will never be shared.

1. What neighborhood/community do you live in?

2. What is the name of your street? What is the nearest intersecting street?

3. How many years have you lived in this neighborhood/community?

4. What is going well in your neighborhood/community?

5. What is going poorly in your neighborhood/community?

Don't forget to fill out the back!

5. What do you think could be done to make your neighborhood/community better?

By providing us with your email address, we will be able to send you a report about your neighborhood/community. Your email address will never be shared and won't be connected to any of your survey answers.
