Agency: Kentucky CancerLink, Inc.

Program Name: Fayette County Connection Program

LFUCG Extended Social Resource Grant Program FY16 Funding: $20,000

Program Summary: The Fayette County Connection Program (FCC) is unique in that we provide patient navigation services and educational materials related to 1) cancer screenings, 2) cancer diagnoses, and 3) cancer survivorship to a variety of populations, depending upon their needs. FCC also provides direct and indirect services, supplies, and limited short-term financial support to those in need of cancer screenings, to those receiving cancer treatments, and to cancer survivors. The direct support is provided at no cost to the individuals and is based on a household income at 250% of the Federal Poverty Level or below. The FCC program places a special emphasis on those who are uninsured and under-served. The FCC program will serve at least 800 Fayette County residents.

One of the population groups that FCC serves is those in need of cancer screenings. The screenings will increase their chances of early detection of cancer and survival of cancer. Examples of cancer screenings are clinical breast exams, mammograms, ultrasounds, and biopsies for breast cancer screenings; at-home colon cancer screening test kits and colonoscopies for colon cancer screenings; pap tests for cervical cancer screenings; and, new in 2015, CT lung cancer screenings for lung cancer.

Program services provided include cancer screening educational materials, access to cancer screenings, transportation, childcare assistance, cancer-related medications, wigs, mastectomy products, compression items, survivorship programs and other personal needs. The goals of this program are to increase evidence-based cancer screenings, improve treatment outcomes and provide support to cancer survivors.

Long-Term Program Goals: The long-term goals for the Fayette County Connection Program are: 1) Enable under-served citizens of Fayette County to receive evidence-based preventive cancer screenings at no-cost or low cost through patient navigators and community partners; 2) Provide education on the need for cancer screenings and information on cancer-screening programs available to qualified Fayette County residents; 3) Identify and remove barriers to cancer screening, treatment, and survivorship through internal and external resources; 4) Increase support for Hispanic and other ethnic population through FCC navigator with Spanish language interpreter skills and external language support service.
