Southland Drive becomes the focal point of bluegrass music in central Kentucky, and in turn becomes a national destination point.

- a) Officially give it the "nickname" of Bluegrass Avenue, name each section of the road after the legendary bluegrass artists that lived and worked in Lexington.
- b) Banner each section with the artists name
- c) Put large 6' tall guitar, banjo, fiddle and mandolin statues under each banner
- e) Large statue of BILL MONROE at the avenue entrance
- f) Put park benches next to each statue
- g) declare Bluegrass Avenue a permit free busking zone
